

Problem 1

Write a Java Client-Server

Program where:

- The Server waits for a connection from client and can handle multiple requests.
- The client sends a string message to the server.
- The server processes the message and sends back a response.
- Communication continues till the client "exit".